NOW THAT YOU’VE HAD the chance to participate in this forum, we’d like to know what you think. Your opinions, along with those of others who participated in these forums, will be reflected in a summary report that will be available to all citizens, including those who took part in these forums, as well as officeholders and members of the news media.

1. Do you agree or disagree with the statements below?
   a. Lawmakers cannot give full attention to their duties because they must spend far too much time raising funds for the next election campaign.
   b. Most elected officials do not relate to the problems facing ordinary Americans.
   c. Most politicians tend to serve their own interests or those of their backers rather than considering the public good.
   d. Proportional representation, in which the number of congressional seats won by a party in an election would reflect the number of votes received, would better meet the needs of our increasingly diverse society than the winner-take-all system we now use.
   e. Special interests backed by big money have far too much influence on the nation’s lawmakers.
   f. The control over redrawning voting districts, exerted in most states by party politicians, is a major culprit in our growing political polarization.

2. Do you favor or oppose each of these actions?
   a. Reverse the Supreme Court ruling that allows political action committees to collect unlimited, anonymous campaign contributions from corporations, EVEN IF this would limit the constitutional right to free speech.
   b. Require full disclosure of all meetings between lobbyists and elected officials or their staff members, EVEN IF this would result in the need to document an avalanche of trivial information.
   c. Make it easier for ordinary citizens to run for office, through public financing, for example, EVEN IF this would result in the election of inexperienced lawmakers who may be more susceptible to manipulation.
   d. Revise the rules for filibustering to prevent a few lawmakers from blocking actions supported by the majority, EVEN IF that would make it easier for the majority to abuse the minority.
   e. Enact term limits for members of Congress so they do not become entrenched, EVEN IF that means unelected career bureaucrats could gain the advantage over new, inexperienced lawmakers.

2. Do you favor or oppose each of these actions? (continued)

   f. Require states to hold open primaries in which citizens can vote for candidates of any party, EVEN IF this makes it possible for an opposing party to manipulate the system.

   g. Severely punish campaign violations by disqualifying candidates who break the rules, EVEN IF this may place a nearly impossible burden on candidates by overly punishing them for even minor infractions.

   h. Turn over redistricting to independent citizen committees, EVEN IF this could result in undermining the influence of minorities who otherwise would be powerless.

   i. Institute and enforce a waiting period before lawmakers can work for special-interest groups after leaving office, EVEN IF this restricts their ability to pursue careers matched to their skills and experience.
